

Foxxum and Radioline partnering to create In-Vehicle Infotainment System (IVI)

Kiel (Germany), March 11th, 2022 | The global smart TV solution provider and innovator, Foxxum, will be working on an In-Vehicle-Infotainment (IVI) solution with Radioline, a global radio and audio provider, after having successfully made Radioline's smart TV app available on all Foxxum OS-enabled devices in the past.

Radioline's automotive app offers the largest catalog of 110,000+ local and worldwide radio stations, web-radios, and podcasts (over 10 million episodes), with curated and Premium content catalogs ranging from news, sports, talks to music with channels such as World's Best and HQ Radio. The app is available in 18 languages, in an intuitive UI designed for in-car experience.

The IVI app features a unique one-touch export of tracks to streaming playlists (Deezer, Spotify, Apple music), search engines, downloadable podcasts, a player, as well as mini-player modes without advertisements, plus, multi-device features where content is synced and can be streamed from several devices – from CTV and mobile to IVI.
